Disclaimer

- The technology does not use or access information that is not commonly available to the internet computing public.
- When terms like “revolution’ are used, they are not calls or inciting of unlawful behaviors – it’s just that’s what falls out of the modelspace. Sorry...
- The key underlying tenets of the work are 1) all humans are prescient at a preconscious level and 2) chance favors the prepared mind.
- We don’t make the future – we just try to see it coming...

Technology Overview

- Developed by a highly experienced SQL database guru who was a troubleshooter for the big SQL company.
- Scans internet discussion groups (collectively 'the fora')
- A data 'run' is 6-7 weeks duration encompassing typically 50-100 million samples ('reads') of interest
- Predicts events based on shifting use of language.
- Pertinent bits of language are parsed into 4-digit hex code which is modeled in IntelliCad using the LISP interface.

An Example of Language Shift

- Words have short and long term values and hot/cold emotional values.
- As these drift around over time, we infer useful information about the future.
 - “lan I’m gonna jack your ride”
 - “lan, I will institute a recovery proceedings to repossess your automobile.”
- One sentence is a highly emotional/high immediacy value event likely to happen any time NOW
- The other infers a slow...process-oriented event sequencing of formal events...

Modelspace

- In 'modelspace' clumps and clusters of data appear. These clusters have 'entity names' such as Terra (earth related), GlobalPop (humans everywhere), USAPop (the American subset of humans) and a few "Yet-to-Be-Defined" bit buckets such as "Space Goat Farts"
- By comparing earlier snapshots of modelspace with the current run, movement of certain data elements becomes apparent in 'blink lab' fashion.
- Hard to do "Individual" forecasts because high profile persons are generally too 'hot' emotionally to be easily managed.

Aspects of past “hits”

- 2001 had ‘life changing tipping point” in late June and early July 2001 in advance of 9/11.
- Attack on House or Assembly (preceding anthrax)
- 2003 NE Power Outage
<http://www.urbansurvival.com/bothit5.htm>
- Land driven back to previous age, 300,000 dead in Aug 2004 prior to Banda Aceh quake
- “Gem of the ocean, maritime disaster” prior to Columbia (space ship)disaster...

2008 Actual

- October 6/7 the global financial meltdown begins as Icelandic banks fail and markets drop

Names of Years

- Linguistically 2007 was the “Year of emergence” where we saw the current macro trends forming
- 2008 was the “Year of manifestation” ruled (to borrow an astrological context) by two memes [thought viruses] “Secrets Revealed” and “Economic Collapse”
- 2009 is the “Year of Transformation” Take a snapshot of where you were today and your life situation is likely to be significantly different by year end – to be changed by this year’s pending events.

“Year of Transformation” Highlights

- Possible economic collapse of USA due to additive impacts of the socioeconomic contract breakdown
 - Housing bubble collapse
 - Debt instrument bubble collapse
 - Possible repudiation of the US dollar
- Global Coastal Event
- “Secrets revealed” start to pour out of NASA and political offices
- End of the ‘comfortable high tech/high consumption’ lifestyle and an involuntary return to lifestyle of previous generations

A Future Historians View

- Future historians are likely to see 'economic dislocations' and a 'fuzzy revolution' as the highlights of the year. This will peak over what's described as the 'summer of hell' globally.
- U.S. government will begin to collapse. Perhaps not in head count, but with revenues falling dramatically, 30-40% decreases in government size & services seem likely by year end.
- Two waves of 'whistle-blowers' are expected. The first as the Bush administration leaves office may focus on purported misdeeds/abuses while a second set of whistleblower cases is expected in the May-June period as massive change comes to NASA, JPL, and highly placed military personnel who may face job impacts due to the economy bouncing around.

January 2009

- NOT FROM LINGUISTICS: After a brief period of stability, I expect the markets will resume their declines and this should last through late February or April.
- The “Services Bubble” collapse begins. Excess services, shopping facilities, luxury goods begin to crater
- Unemployment rate continues to accelerate upward – note that already the Obama team has mentioned a 9% unemployment rate, which is at least one third more than present and may go double-digits.

February 2009

- Global tensions which have been in release mode due to falling markets since early October 2008, bottom out briefly starting in the Feb 14-Mar 1 area.
- From this point, the country enters a period of 'building tensions' which will carry through into the 'summer of hell'.
- Global coastal event(s) start to heat up – lead in events possible.
- Wave of enlistments to US Military as an alternative to unemployment (Obama youth corps?)

March-April 2009

- Food/Goods riots/demonstrations/confrontations presage the broader breakdown of social contract over summer.
- International pressure begins to build on the US dollar – this is a months-long process.
- NASA (and political) Whistleblowers appear in number
- NOT FROM LINGUISTICS: I expect to see non-paper assets of all types begin to appreciate (prices going up in dollar terms) of items like equipment, gold, silver, any fungible holdings (e.g. clothing, canned goods, etc.). Personally plan to be out of most government paper by this period.

May 2009

- Squatters /displaced / homeless / unemployed persons begin to question the socioeconomic contract.
- Prices of commodities continue rising (from dollar repudiation) and electrical power and other services become sporadic in isolated areas.
- Continuing unemployment, pressures on government to reduce spending, while at the same time social services demands skyrocket trying to quell potential (turning to actual) violence
- Global Coastal Events (GCE) go mainstream

June-July 2009

- Experiences of the 'summer of hell' vary based on region. California may have veggies, but no power. Iowa may have corn, but no veggies, Northwest may have power, but little food –
- Concurrently there are lots of Terra events – goodly number of 'summer shakes' (earthquakes) but even though large enough to be normal 'headlines' they are instead footnotes to the breakdown of social contract globally.

August 2009

- Government services falter as budgets collapse.
- Purchasing power of dollar failing in some regions leads government workers to walk off the job as they don't get 'value' for 'work'
- Possibility of Social Security, and other government payments such as military retirement, being reduced or temporarily not available.

September 2009

- Geopolitical landscape dramatically changed as small communities evolve a 'cooperative living' model which we call 'bogslife' (beyond organizational and governmental systems). Like "Hippies 3.0" with no fall-back position.
- Seriously eroded 'federal' governance model as self-sufficient sub regions arise more responsive to local conditions.

October 2009

- Internet becomes sporadic
- In late summer/early fall expect two major 'ship disappearances (may or may not make public consciousness). One may involve two members of the royalty/aristocracy while the other may involve a boatload of Hollywood-types.

Project Outlook

- Early reads in the current ALTA runs are encountering first effects of Australian's "national firewall / net censorship"
- Australia is the test case for rollout 'net control' because of its PTB/bloodlines/aristocracy control, Anglo consumerist orientation, and pliability (e.g. gun control)
- Impact is to reduce or end effectiveness of the Web Bot project because of concept filtering/censorship
